DETAILED ACTION

This Office Action is in response to amendments and remarks filed August 25, 2003. Claims 1, 2 and 4-10 are currently pending.

Specification

1. The title of the invention is not descriptive. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1, 2 and 6-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Gowda et al. (U.S. Patent 5,898,168).

Regarding claims 1, 2 and 6-10, Gowda et al. disclose (see Figures 3B and 5) a photoelectric conversion device, comprising: a photoelectric converter (26); an amplifier (23); a reset circuit (21); and a charge transfer circuit (22) being interposed between an output terminal of the photoelectric converter and an input terminal of the amplifier; the reset circuit being connected to the input terminal of the amplifier or the output terminal of the photoelectric converter, wherein a reference signal held at the input terminal of the amplifier is read (47) from an output terminal of the amplifier after charge accumulation, then the charge transfer circuit is turned on so that the accumulated charges on the photoelectric converter are transferred to the input terminal of the amplifier, the charge transfer circuit is then turned off, the transferred charges held at the input terminal of the amplifier are read (49) from the output terminal of the amplifier as a light signal, then the transfer circuit and the reset circuit are both turned on so that the output terminal of the photoelectric converter and the input terminal of the amplifier are both set to a reset voltage, and then the charge transfer circuit is turned off after the reset circuit is turned off, whereby subsequent charge accumulation under a light on the photoelectric converter is conducted. Gowda et al. also disclose (see Figure 1) a first memory (CR) that stores the first voltage; a second memory (CS); a first switch (S1) and a second switch (S2) as claimed.

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Claims 4 and 5 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

5. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
